Quite a sensation was created in Louisville a few days ago by the robbery of the Planters National Bank of $110,000. Louis Rehm, the Teller and book-keeper, who enjoyed the utmost confidence of the officers of the bank committed the act, and endeavored by cutting and otherwise maintaining himself to give plausibility to the story that he had been chafed, taken from home and by the robbers compelled to open the bank under threat of immediate death on his refusal. He stood to the story for some time, but got so wound up in a cross examination that he finally broke down and told the truth—that he had stolen the money himself, and that he had been driven to it by unfortunate speculations. He was held for trial and his bail fixed at $50,000. It has been subsequently found out that he had taken money at various times. Most of the amount stolen the other night he returned.

HON. JEFFERSON DAVIS, in his speech at De Soto, Mo., the other day, said that he favored a direct trade with Europe, and asserted that specie resumption was impracticable until our exports exceed our imports. He also declared that Congress had no authority to declare that specie payments should be resumed at a certain date, and that in the present condition of the country, more currency is needed. The speech of Mr. Davis was loudly applauded, and seemed to give much satisfaction. Mr. Davis, we judge, is evidently in sympathy with the Democracy of Ohio, and doubtless thinks that Governor Allen will be re-elected. We feel sure that the tidal wave has set in, and that nothing short of a Democratic President will satisfy them.

ANOTHER BANK ROBBERY.—On Monday last, about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, four men rode up to the Huntington Bank, of Huntington, West Virginia, two of whom dismounted and went in, while the other two guarded the outside. The President being at dinner, business was left in charge of the Cashier, of whom the keys of the safe were demanded. He refused at first to give them up, but the robbers drew revolvers and held them in his face, threatening to kill him, and finally succeeded in getting the keys, and opening the safe and stealing about $13,000. They then galloped off in a Southern direction. Officers and citizens started in pursuit at once, and police at all adjacent points were notified of the robbery.

THE NEW direct cable telegraph has been successfully laid between this country and Europe. It is thought that the cable telegrams will now be transmitted at a much less cost to our commercial men and others.

WITHIN a few days there will be a lightning fast mail train from New York to Chicago, which will put the Eastern mail into Louisville and other Southern cities twelve hours sooner than ever before.

HON. JEFFERSON DAVIS has been invited to speak in several places out in the Great West, this fall, and has accepted the invitations. What do the Winnebagos think of it?

STILL ANOTHER.—A Bank in Greenville, Ky., was entered by burglars the other night, and robbed of $40,000 in bonds and money. Did the James and Younger brothers do it?

FEWER counties in this State have held fairs this year than for many in the past. The long wet spell, failure of several of the crops and universal hard times, account for it.

Editor's Interior Journal:

We made a flying visit to Richmond, by rail, last Saturday; to see the big Circus and Menagerie, that were hauled over the railroad through Maxville, Saturday morning without stopping—every acquaintance declared, who learned our destination; and almost every one who observed our clean duster and polished shoes, to say nothing of others of the best articles of our scanty wardrobe, asked, "Where are you going?"

Our trip was to pay a visit to a relation, and to see a portion of Madison county and her capitol, to which we were an utter stranger; but we confess to having gone to the "show." How could we help it, when the tents were spread within an easy stone's throw of our host's residence? It was a big "show," a grand one, and we felt safe in the realization that our dear friends, Art and Dilsey, were not present to share our enjoyment of the rare witticisms of the clown, which we feel safe in saying, don't inscribe as a bold hero.

A QUAKER agent, as we learn from the Courier-Journal, has been operating in the county of Hardin, as a land buyer. He made quite extensive purchases, but on the eve of settlement, he disappeared, and, of course left his friends minus their pay. It is a high compliment to our friends, of the Quaker persuasion, that any one, even a sneak, should use their garb and manners in order to deceive any one.

CALIFORNIA has gone Democratic by an overwhelming majority. Samuel Bowles, editor of the Springfield, (Mass.) Republican, a leading Radical paper, says this result indicates the course of events in Ohio next month, and very probably those of 1876—and is rather of the opinion that we are to have a Democratic President next year. Won't that be splendid?

KENTUCKY, California, Connecticut and North Carolina, send 34 members to Congress, all Democratic.—Ohio will swell this number very materially. The ball is moving—that tidal wave is swelling more grandly every day, and Democrats "rejoice with exceeding gladness."

The whites and blacks have entered into a regular crusade for the purpose of driving out the shameless carpet-baggers and other scallawags who have for so long a time infested and cursed the Southern States. Success to them.

THE Democratic and Liberal State Convention of Wisconsin, met at Milwaukee, the other day, and in their resolutions, opposed every form of corruption, of place or power, either State or Federal. The action of the noble people of this State deserves honorable mention. They also asserted that a State had a right to protect its citizens from monopolized capital. The Wisconsin State officers were also re-nominated for their present positions.

Moody and Sankey, the great evangelists and singers, aided by Whittle and Bliss, who are scarcely their inferiors, have begun a revival at Northfield, Mass., the native town of Mr. Moody, and the first sermon of the latter gentleman is spoken of by the papers as being an effective and powerful one.

BENJAMIN FINZER, one of the five brothers who run the largest tobacco manufactories in Louisville, died in that city on Wednesday last, after a short illness. He was the oldest member of the firm, although he was only about 35 years old.

THE late Governor, T. E. Bramlette was thought to have given pardon to a great many convicts in our Penitentiary. It is now stated that Governor Leslie pardoned over 500 convicts during his term of office.

JENNIE JUNE, the Courier-Journal's special fashion correspondent, says striped stockings are only worn by stage imitators. Ladies of real distinction and refinement will not wear them. That's what makes us say what we do say.

MAJ. J. M. WRIGHT, of Louisville, who was Adjutant General on Buell's staff during the war, has been appointed Adj't. General of Kentucky, by Gov. McCreary, at salary of $1200 per year.

THE whites and blacks got into a regular mule down in Mississippi last week, and blood was shed. All this, too, over a bottle of rot-gut whisky which was taken into camp by a Radical carpet-bagger.

of buck drivers, and general hubbub at the depot on arrival of the train, were as stunning as in a much more pretentious city. Our handsome young friend, and townsman, Jim McKinney, Ticket, Freight Agent, and Telegraph operator, was fitting about through the jam with that smiling alacrity and remarkable courtesy, conspicuous in him when here in a subordinate capacity—traits of such distressing rarity amongst a certain class of public servants as to make Jim perfectly loved to a traveler, and universally popular with acquaintances both business and social. A health to Jim!—May his days be lengthened beyond the natural limit, and his life as delightful to himself, as his good nature is to his friends.

The Circus had drawn thousands to the town, and Main Street presented the appearance of a city thoroughfare. Hand-some residences, and magnificent business houses greet the eye at every turn, and, together, with the almost universal retouching that the older buildings have lately received, Richmond presents a delightfully fresh appearance. Whilst many of the old landmarks have been destroyed by fire, and their disappearance will thrill with sadness the hearts of old acquaintances after long absence, the improved modern buildings which have succeeded them are pleasing to a stranger's eye. The new business houses have all the modern improvements and conveniences, and some are perfect gems in their appointments. The suburban residences are of handsome architecture, and more striking surroundings than those of Richmond's sister towns.

The new College building, Professors' residences, and many other new and handsome buildings, make Lancaster Avenue one of the most attractive drives about the city.

In a long letter we could not mention a title of what we saw to admire at Richmond. To speak of Madison hospitality, which has become proverbial, would be superfluous. This noble hall has already grown wearisomely long, but we can't stop without advising every one visiting Richmond, who has an hour to devote to the town and environs, to visit the Cemetery. Louisville nor Lexington, can more consistently eloquent in praise of her neocropolis, than can Richmond. Between thirty and forty monuments, some magnificent, embellished, whilst others inspire admiration of Madison's reverence of her dead. An admirable arrangement of evergreens materially enhances the beauties; system being evinced at every turn, the utter lack of which mars the beauties of small Cemeteries in general. We were shown the imprints of bullets on some of the shafts, made in the battle at Richmond, in '62, some of which will be enduring as the inscriptions commemorative of the virtues of those over whose remains these monuments were erected.

We are glad we went to Richmond, and intend to go again, when convenient.

Yours, A. GOODIN.

Diseases of Domestic Animals.
Editor's Interior Journal:

It is to be regretted that so few of our farmers and others know so little about the diseases which afflict their domestic animals. There is almost utter and universal ignorance on the subject. The diseases which afflict the cow are said to be very few, perhaps not a dozen kinds. The diseases of animals (like those of children who cannot talk) are more difficult to diagnose than those of man. Remedies which are beneficial to the human family are, as a general thing, good for animals also; if taken, of course, in greater quantities. The observing farmer who has a sick animal can very soon ascertain the nature of its malady if he will consult any good book which treats of the diseases of animals. I had a cow a short time since which was giving over five gallons of milk a day. Her calf was two months old. Her udder began to swell and harden, also two of her teats, from one of which there came bloody milk. She grew stiff and feeble, and the flow of milk decreased over one-half. I did not know what was the matter with her, nor could I ascertain from any of our farmers to whom I described the symptoms. Fortunately a near neighbor told me he had a book which treated of animal complaints, and I found on examining it that my cow had "garget"—a disease of theudder which causes it and one or more of the teats to swell, harden, inflame, and the flow of milk to cease eventually. She was sick four or five days before I found what the disease was, and she had become so stiff and lame that when down it was hardly possible to get her up. The remedy is simple and cheap. I gave her a drench of three-fourths of a pound of Epson Salts dissolved in about a quart of boiling water, to which I added a gill of molasses. I gave her one dose in the forenoon and repeated it in the evening. The remedy acted like magic, for she was able to walk about in two hours, and was well in three days. I have mentioned this instance simply to call attention to the necessity of looking more closely to the diseases of our domestic animals. We owe it to ourselves to do it in a financial sense, and to the poor dumb animals who are unable to help themselves.

FARMER.

A HUNDRED number of the people from this county, Boyle and Garrard, attended the sale at the residence of the late James L. Bruce, on Wednesday. Stock of all kinds, and other personal estate, sold for only moderate prices. The land was offered, but as only $25 per acre was bid, the same was withdrawn to await a better market. This land is said to be worth much more than the offered bid, as it lies in an angle of three turnpikes, and is within a few miles of three county seats.

A REPORTER of the Journal saw a "freak of nature" the other day, which Craddock cannot beat. A sucking male colt was exhibited to him which had three well developed ears, two on one side, and its tail was similar to that of a horse colt, except the small difference in the length. The tail seemed to have been cut off within six inches of its body, but the hair and the small remnant was similar to that of a horse colt.

REV. MR. BALLOU will preside at the Christian Church, next Sunday, at 11 o'clock.

The repairs done on the Male Seminary make the old building look much better and far more comfortable.

TUG Pendleton House has been rented by Mr. Samuel Hardin, of Livingston Station. He will take possession next week.

THE Lincoln Quarterly Court was in session two days this week, but there was only a small docket and but little business done.

REV. A. D. RASH, having removed to Richmond, Ky., desires us to say that his friends will please hereafter address him at that place.

CASTLE Buford has fewer boarders now than for some months past. There are a few there, however, lying in soak for next months Court.

THE Boyle Circuit Court has been in session since last Monday, and will continue twelve days. The docket is said to be small, and of little interest.

OUR Foreman has taken the place of our Business Manager—as far as happiness is concerned. His sweatheart sent him a treat of ice cream and cake, which was delicious.

ALL of our schools will open on Monday next, with an increased number of pupils over former seasons. The present Fall and Winter terms promise to be unusually prosperous.

"THE grinders cease" because the water is low, and not because the aforesaid grinders are few. Our numerous water mills have almost ceased running on account of the absence of rain.

ON entering the Dry Goods and Clothing Stores of Hayden Bros. we were struck with the large and varied Fall Stock they have just received, and the low prices at which they are selling their goods.

THOMAS BUFORD.

PERSONAL—Miss Jennie D. Apperson, the accomplished music teacher of the Stanford Female College, returned on Monday last. Miss Myers is expected back to day, and Miss Hart, Saturday. Session opens Monday.

THE colored people of our town and vicinity, have a very good school now in session, under the control of a colored man named Brown. The school is fairly attended, and the boys and girls seem to delight in attending.

IN the course of human events it becomes our pleasant duty to say to the friends of Mr. James E. Bruce and the public generally, that he has always "hands" the best horses, vehicles and drivers, and that horses left in his charge will be well attended.

WE saw a statement the other day, that a certain county in this State had a larger number of miles of turnpike than any other. If any one county can show, by actual statistics, a greater number than the county of Lincoln, we are ready and willing to hear from that section.

WESTWARD HO!—The same stream of emigrants has begun from the hills of East Tennessee and North Carolina, bound for the chill and fever prairies of the Far West. A number of wagons loaded with tow-headed children and bare-footed women, passed through town this week. Within less than two years, half or all of them that may chance to escape with their lives, will pass back over the same trail, bent on reaching that cool spring on the mountain side away down among the healthy hills and valleys of their old homes.

MR. JAS. WALLACE, of this county, who accidentally shot himself in the leg, in an attempt to shoot a dog, about two weeks ago, died on yesterday morning from the effects of the wound. His funeral will be performed at his late residence to-day, at 10 o'clock, A. M., by Rev. G. C. Overstreet.

We learn that nearly, if not all the depots on the C. S. R. R. have been laid out by the engineers, and that in most cases general satisfaction has been given the different sections where they have been placed. Several of them in this and adjoining counties are destined to beco considerable trading places.

"I KNEW it would rain, for all the morn a spirit on slender threads of mist, was lowering its golden buckets down into the vapor anemeth." Thus wrote Aldrich, the poet. We would like to have that spirit come around this way with his slender threads, and as many buckets as he can conveniently carry.

The law against carrying concealed deadly weapons is almost a dead letter. Not a day passes that we do not hear of some one, black or white, being guilty of a violation of the statute. We predict a lively time before the Grand Jury of the coming October term of the Lincoln Circuit Court on account of a violation of this very proper law.

We are requested by our reporter who wrote the communication about the Grant pier-pie, to state that he inadvertently omitted to mention that Mr. A. K. Denny made a most excellent speech on the occasion, of which all who heard him speak in the highest terms. The omission, he says, was caused by his not getting on with Lockett struck him with a stone, from which he died in less than two hours. Lockett surrendered himself to the proper officer. His trial is set for Wednesday, at 9 o'clock.

LATER.—The examining trial of David Lockett for killing Ben Goss took place Wednesday before Squire Birch and Judge Pollard. He was pronounced guilty of murder, and is now in jail awaiting the sitting of the next term of the Circuit Court.

MRS. FANNIE SHANKS, wife of our townsmen, Samuel H. Shanks, died on Sunday last, after a short illness, of inflammation of the stomach and bowels. She leaves three little girls, motherless, the youngest being only a few weeks old. The heartful sympathies of all our citizens go out to Mr. Shanks and his little ones, in this hour of their greatest sorrow.

MANY loads of wheat have been delivered at our Depot during the past week, which are destined for the markets at Louisville and other points. The price paid delivered at the cars here, varies from $10 to $12 per bushel, according to quality. The most of that which has been shipped so far, is not of first class, but quite good enough for all ordinary purposes.

COME!—The tide of emigration sets in this direction. We are informed that a number of families have moved into our county during the past two years. When the fact shall be known that we have as fine land, wood, and water as any other section of our great State, that Lincoln county has as many miles of excellent pike roads, as any other, and that we have now one railroad running across us and another running through in a different direction, which will be complete in less than a year, we can readily understand why it is that the tide of emigration rolls this way. We say to all who wish a pleasant home in a land of plenty, and where health abounds, come this way. You will meet those who will extend to you a cordial greeting. The Knoxville Branch of the L. & N. R. R. passes immediately through our town. The Cincinnati Southern railroad will have a depot within six or eight miles of us, and both of these roads pass over a splendid scope of country. Our lands, though good, are not of a very high price. We have told to all who wish a pleasant home—Come!

LEWISBURG, W. Va.—We are informed that Mr. R. F. Vermillion, of Boyle, is still manufacturing and selling that excellent Cutting-box he invented about two years ago. We have been told it exceeds any box in use.

THE members of Roberts' Chapel Grange had a feast of good things on the 28th ult. We can't say it was public, yet several who were not members of the order, were invited and did participate. It was addressed to the attention of the Grange, not vicinity—a dental surgeon.
